Foreword

Laughing, meditating, talking, playing, studying, experimenting individuals of Iowa Mennonite School participate in a busy curriculum, vigorous sports, and spiritual activities. Disagreements and friendships helped us work together, form new ideas, and develop our personalities. As we advance from freshmen to seniors we learn to accept new responsibilities. We hope you will enjoy this book as you get a glimpse of our personalities.

To You Miss Wyse . . .

We dedicate this 1965-66 Reverie in appreciation for the endless deeds you have done for us. We are indebted to you for showing us beauty through art, for guiding our steps in producing this yearbook, for being a vivacious class sponsor, and for your constant and understanding help as a librarian.

But most of all, we want to thank you for so freely demonstrating the Christian life. Your bubbling personality, concern for others, quiet confidence, and helpfulness have deepened our faith in God.

For this and much more, we dedicate our Reverie to you, Miss Wyse, as an expression of our deep gratitude.

To us the school is an expression of intensity as a teacher explains Shakespeare to the seniors, of amusement as he speaks informally with a student, of interest as he counsels a bewildered sophomore.

Dedicated faculty members contribute much to the school. Even though they are very busy preparing lessons and tests, signing passes, coaching teams, and sponsoring classes, they also are willing to take time out for a chat. Lessons, college, and spiritual problems are sometimes the topics of discussion.

By sharing experiences, teachers and students become better acquainted with each other and students realize that teachers were once teenagers with joys, sorrows, problems, and brainy ideas. The teachers are not superhumans, because they need renewed strength for every day. Each morning before school they meet to begin the day with prayer.

Bus drivers John Clark, Wayne Wenger, and Larry Brenneman scrub a bus.

To us the school is an expression of weariness as a student struggles to memorize Spanish verbs, of gratification as a teacher again explains the procedure in working an algebra problem, of elation as he finally learns to distinguish between a gerund and participle.

ACADEMIC

Judy Bender, Nancy Bender and Christine Yoder work on a world history assignment for the following day.

Sociology, geography and readings

Three new social science courses were added to our curriculum this year. Through team teaching in sociology, students learn what man's relationship is in group living, while world geography widened student's view on natural and cultural happenings in the world. In readings in the social studies, students read articles concerning human events and wrote a research paper.

Ray Bender prepares to illustrate his report in world geography class.

Several language courses besides the four year English requirement are offered to students. Besides the usual daily work, Spanish students went Christmas caroling in the halls and enjoyed sampling "turrones", a candy from Spain. Spice was added to the German class with the addition of a German teacher on the staff. Bulletin boards, such as Mrs. Tiessen's, helped to lend a more creative and interesting atmosphere to all the language classes.

The addition of new microscopes by the P.T.A. increased biology students' interest as they examined plant and animal life. Other science classes taught students the meaning of H_2O and optics. Studying algebra and geometry increased the students' knowledge of math.

For the first time, boys were offered home economics. They learned how to darn, patch and cook, their first project being "chocolate chip cookies." The girls' classes held a style show and tea for their mothers and friends and planned and furnished homes. Learning the latest techniques in agriculture and constructing small farm buildings increased the ag boys' ability of farming.

Renee Detwiler and Joan Roth add the final touches to their home economics sewing projects.

Ledru Freyenburger flies over Leon Stutzman, Roger Erteld, and Doug Yoder in a tumbling exercise.

Students create individuality through sculpture, wood-carving, oil painting and balancing mobiles in art class. A major project was copper plaques to compose a mosaic mural in the center room.

Students are kept in shape in physical education by running laps backwards, doing strenuous calisthenics and engaging in a variety of sports, such as football, basketball, tennis, tumbling and volleyball. Through team activities students learned to be better sports.

Artists create designs in copper.

The Art II students concentrate on their various projects.

Small groups find time to harmonize.

The senior girls' quartet; Joanna Hershberger, Joyce Miller, Renee Detwiler and Rose Hershberger, receive a pass from Mr. Alderfer to practice.

Students learn about note reading and directing in music class and exercise this knowledge in small groups. Through these informal groups, students learn to know each other better, and realize the beauty of God through singing.

One of these groups, the Junior boys quartet, participated in a district contest after winning the county competition.

Students who wish to, may sing in a chorus. Freshmen and sophomore boys sing in the Boys' Chorus and the girls' from these classes sing in the Girls' Chorus. The Vesper Chorale is made of individuals chosen from the juniors and seniors singing in the Large Chorus. Highlight of the year for the Vesper Chorale was the trip to Goshen, Indiana for a music festival.

To us the school is an expression of astonishment as a student realizes that he has been chosen for the honor society, of frustration as he discovers that his committee has not completed the details of the gospel team, of relief as he knows that the last Reverie deadline has been reached.

ORGANIZATIONS

Jerry Gingerich, editor, Bonnie Slaubaugh, literary editor, and Marcia Yoder, assistant editor, watch as Miss Wyse, adviser, tacks the medalist certificate won by last year's Reverie on the bulletin Board.

to portray our school.

Things that constituted the construction of the Reverie were work, excitement, and lots of fun. At a meeting one could hear the clicking of typewriter keys, a hum of voices and occasionally a burst of laughter. Heads bent over copy, hands pushing pencils, and a fist rubbing sleepy eyes proved that work was being done.

Copywriters, Elaine Guengerich, Renee Detwiler, and Kathleen Yoder, proofread what they have written.

Busy juniors portrayed the school activities by printing the monthly newspaper, Reflector, which informed us about school news and student opinions through news articles, "Air Your Opinion," "What's Cookin'" and editorials.

Miss Frey, adviser, and Sandra Yoder, editor, criticise their first publication.

Juniors contribute talents

“Y” executive committee works

Members of the extension committee, Martha Yoder, chairman, Christine Yoder, Tom Yoder, and Roger Er-teld decide which tracts should be used for distribution in Iowa City.

Searching for films are the film committee members: Dale Marner, Mahlon Yoder, Linda Leichty, chairman, and Ray Bender.

The Young People's Christian Association is an organization which guides students in their spiritual growth. A major project of the Y.P.C.A., the foreign exchange student program, brought Yvette Daniel from Haiti to be with us this year. Money for this program is collected through "Y" pledges, of which two drives were held this year to help pay for the two-way foreign exchange that is planned for next year. The Y.P.C.A. also sponsors local and out-of-state gospel teams. This year they organized a Life Team. The responsibilities of the Y.P.C.A. are divided among the various committees. These committees work together to create a better spiritual atmosphere in the school.

Many of us have an opportunity to develop our talents through participation in student chapels on Friday morning. These chapels, which are planned by the chapel committee, are given entirely by students. A variety of programs are planned. At Christmastime the German and Spanish classes sang carols. Often small singing groups lead students in worship through song. Through assigned topics students have a chance to express individual viewpoints.

Gospel team members, Jan Kauffman, Marcia Yoder, Mr. Merlin Greiser, Marland Miller, Allen Miller, and Marilyn Slagle, give devotions during a student chapel.

The first semester chapel worship committee, John Bontrager, Joyce Yoder, Dick Yoder, Chairman, and Janice Zook find student chapel suggestions. Arthur Swartzen-druber replaced Dick Yoder in second semester and Janice Zook became chairman.

Larion Swartzendruber, Shirlene Brenneman, June Swartzendruber, Roger Erteld, Renee Detwiler, and Miss Ruby Yoder meet for a short devotional before leaving on their gospel team.

Gospel teams develop under "Y".

Practicing for their gospel team are Mr. Dan Gerber, Bonnie Slaubaugh, Myron Garber, Phyllis Leichty, Lynn Bontrager, and Doris Boshart.

BAA and GAA plan sports schedules.

Students chosen by their class to represent them in the Girls' Athletic Association and the Boys' Athletic Association help Mr. Gerber plan schedules for sport tournaments.

GAA girls, Muriel Miller, Marcia Yoder, Linda Yutzy, Judy Bender, and Cynthia Stutzman, examine the tennis equipment.

Dick Yoder, Wayne Wenger, Ken Miller, Tom Yoder, and Frank Yoder, BAA members, practice running the scoreboard.

Miss Ruby Yoder and Mr. Dan Miller, Advisers; Marilyn Slagle, Secretary; Janice Kauffman, Treasurer, Larry Miller, Vice-President, and Karen Garber, President, pause by the water fountain on their way to a meeting.

Jan Kauffman sells candles to Donna Stoltzfus as part of the STUCO project to raise money.

The Student Council is composed of four executive members chosen by the student body, two representatives from each class, and two advisors. These people meet regularly to discuss projects, problems, and solutions for our campus. The STUCO sponsored several special days this year, such as dress-up day, to help create more school spirit.

ACTIVITIES

Myron Graber interviews Carol Gingrich about her work-day experiences.

Frank Yoder rods his tricycle around the stage as part of the program at the Get-Acquainted party.

April 28-30 were the 1965 work days. Money earned on these days is to be used in the building program which includes a new chapel, a music room, and more office space. Passing the $5,000 goal, students and faculty members brought in $5,112.22. Christian businessmen matched the amount of money earned.

Students attended the annual Get-Acquainted Party to learn to know each other better. Mixer games such as Balloon Battle Royal, Human Bingo, Human Croquet, and Shoe Scramble were played. An impromptu program included "Three Blind Mice" and three tricycle racing freshmen. Refreshments followed the entertaining program.

Projects and

As part of their initiation Miss Yoder, Mr. Brenneman, and Mr. Miller sing a song.

Members of the three teams, Crest, Pepsodent, and Stripe in the annual Reverie-Reflector drive, were urged to sell as many Reveries and Reflectors as possible. At the kick-off program each group was encouraged by their captain, a dentist, and his associates, dental patients in an office, to use their type of toothpaste. At the Reverie party a film, "The Prince and the Pauper," was shown after which prizes were given and refreshments were served. First prize for selling the most Reveries was awarded to Arnold Boller. Julia Bender won first prize for being the highest Reflector salesman. The losing teams, Pepsodent and Stripe, honored the Crest team by paying for the party.

Scattergood visitors

As Miss Yoder watches, Rachel Miller and Dick Swartzendruber thread needles in a relay.

Quaker students and five staff members from the Scattergood Quaker School near West Branch were guests of IMS on October 1, the day of the annual October Outing. Students and guests were divided into twenty groups to participate in the fall fun planned by some of the teachers, that included searching for worms and dandelions in wet grass. Later, twenty boys participated in the cross-country race after which refreshments of cake and milk were served.

Students assist the librarian by serving as assistant librarians. The student librarians' jobs vary from checking in reserve books to writing out overdue slips. They also check out books and magazines, sign passes, and shelve books. This helps the student assistants gain experience and develop responsibility.

On the evening of November 12, servers, hosts, and babysitters excitedly waited for people to begin coming to the annual Chili Supper sponsored by the senior class. At the end of the evening, 1072 hungry people had been served. The menu included the traditional chili, cheese sandwiches, potato salad, carrots, celery, and pie. A film, "The Vanishing Prairie," was shown to anyone who wished to see it. After everyone had been served, tired but happy seniors sat down to discuss the eventful evening.

Opera highlights christmas season

The three kings seek lodging for the night in the hut of Amahl and his mother.

The opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," written by Carl Menotti, was presented by the members of the junior and senior classes on December 17 and 18. This opera is the story of a twelve year-old boy, Amahl, who lives in poverty in a small hut with his mother. One night three kings, who are on their way to pay homage to the Christ Child, stop at the hut. While they are there many changes come to the lives of Amahl and his mother. Amahl leaves with the three kings as they go to Bethlehem to give gifts to the Christ Child. The production required the participation of many students, either as part of the cast or as committee members.

Students present literary festival

Senior choric members mark their scripts as Miss Frey interprets a certain paragraph.

To encourage students in developing ability for literary interpretation, a literary festival was held on March 18. The theme was built around "No Man is an Island," a quotation from John Donne. Freshmen introduced the key idea and sophomores related the theme to social responsibility and relationships. The national or international relationship to the theme was given by the juniors and no person can live in isolation was the subject of the senior presentation. The group presentations were criticized and evaluated.

June Swartzendruber and Marilyn Slagle finish paper carnations for the nutcups.

French shops, the Eiffel Tower, newspaper kiosks, and potted plants greeted the guests to the 1965 junior-senior banquet. Bicycle stands and glowing street lamps added to the French atmosphere. The theme, "Bon voyage en France," took guests to an evening in Paris. Waiters and waitresses, dressed in black and white, served French food. Curtis Burrell, a student from Goshen College Seminary, was the guest speaker for the evening. Guests left "Paris" with a small taste of French culture.

To us the school is an expression of satisfaction as a student knows he has played his best, of pain as he is injured during a tough football game, of jubilation as his team wins the basketball championship.

Highlight of the basketball season was the boys varsity's trip to Kidron, Ohio where they participated in a church school basketball tournament with Bethany, Christopher Dock, Central Christian and Eastern Mennonite High School. IMS gained second place, losing only to Bethany, who came in first.

The boys and girls varsity teams both played two varsity-alumni games. The varsity boys lost the first, where Dale Hershberger was leading scorer with 35 points, and won the second, 83-69. The girls varsity was victorious in both of their games against the alumni, winning the second one in an overtime, 16-15.

Many students participated in the intermural basketball during activity periods and on Friday nights. Those playing basketball were divided into leagues composed of class teams. The competition, high among both the boys and girls leagues, produced several exciting games, including the breathtaking game in which the seniors eked out a two point win over the juniors. When the season ended the boy's and girl's ratings both were the seniors on top, followed by the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen.

This year, football was set up in a different manner from other years. Only nine members constituted a team, where as before 11 members made up a team. At the end of the football season the seniors finished first followed by juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

Varsity included members of the sophomore, junior and senior classes. In their meeting with the alumni in October, the varsity was victorious 12-6.

Several records

Competition was high and records were broken in the 1965 track meet.

One boy's record was broken; that by Marlin Miller, who cleared the high jump at 5'11½". Marlin also held first place in total points, followed by Duane Brenneman and Richard Bender. In class standings for the boys, seniors were first and juniors came in second followed by the sophomores and freshmen.

The girls set three new records. Gloria Yoder, leading scorer for the girls, jumped 8'3½" in the standing broad jump. Rosalyn Yoder won the 440 yard dash at 1:16.9 and the freshmen I team broke the old record of the 440 relay. Sophomore girls were the first in class standings followed by seniors, freshmen and juniors.

Don Brenneman grimaces as he attempts to clear the bar.

A variety of minor sports each season added interest to physical education classes.

In the fall, girls participated in softball and tennis. A "doubles" tennis tournament was held with Mary and Martha Yoder declared the winners. The boys engaged in vigorous soccer games. When the weather became cooler, students spent time indoors learning the fundamentals of volleyball or table tennis. Boys had wrestling while girls had a choice between tumbling or badminton. One girls' physical education class spent one period playing games from Tanzania led by Rhoda Marwa. Then as the weather grew warm again, students went outside and concentrated on track.

To us the school is an expression of happiness as a student encourages a friend, of mischievousness as he hides a fellow student's book, of concern as he sees a person who needs help.

STUDENTS

Doors to new experiences began to open as we timidly stepped into the halls of IMS. Eagerly anticipating a new angle of life, we weren't sure what would happen next. Some of us, after walking into wrong classes by mistake, learned where the right rooms were.

Talking to a big brother or a big sister helped us to solve some of our problems. By going to class parties and talking with other classmates, we enjoyed becoming acquainted with new friends and learning to know old ones better. We felt secure as we stood in our peer group at our end of the corridor and watched the other students. Chapel services and voluntary prayer groups were also new experiences, and we appreciated the help they gave us.

As we look forward to next year, we plan to profit by past mistakes.

We, the sophomores, feeling more certain of ourselves, looked forward to beginning a new year. Our feelings were mixed. We knew the rooms and who most of the teachers were, but we still didn't have the security of being upperclassmen.

Our discussions at slumber parties and at school knit our friendship ties and sharpened our sense of humor. We had class parties, including a progressive-supper hayride, attended basketball games, and some of us even had our first dates.

But don't get the wrong idea. We also studied and learned to make speeches in speech class. Besides learning to speak publicly in English, some of us also became acquainted with Spanish and German. Often smelling formaldehyde as we entered the biology room, we expected a dissecting session with squeamish fears or excitement.

Now, with two high school years behind us, we are anticipating being upperclassmen.

JUNIORS: Fill halls

After looking forward to the last two years of high school, we entered the junior class and were rewarded with the title of "upper-classmen."

It was quite a busy year. Besides the big occasions, such as running the concession stand and planning for the Junior-Senior Banquet, we had many small tasks to fill every available minute. In spite of all this we seemed to find time for studying and discovered that good grades didn't come by daydreaming or staring out the window.

Class and voluntary prayer meetings broadened our vision and helped us grow spiritually as we looked to new horizons. We learned to know our classmates better through class and informal work parties.

Through the continual process of working, sharing and learning together, we grew a bit more to prepare ourselves for the position of seniors.

With three years of high school behind us we entered the senior class with mixed feelings. All through the year we barely had time to stop and catch our breath, but we realized that if we were to get anywhere in the future we had to keep working toward our goals.

Meetings of every sort seemed to occupy a lot of noon hours. Chili Supper committees combined individual thoughts and ideas to achieve a common goal. The Reverie staff was kept busy burning the midnight oil as we worked toward the completion of the Reverie.

There were always last minute reports due, but we found that it certainly didn't pay to wait until the last minute to start our research paper. We took college entrance tests and then asked ourselves this question, "What shall I do or where shall I go to college next year?"

Class trip was a memorable experience but it was also sad when we stopped to realize that it was the last time we would all be together.

Finally graduation night was upon us. As we walked across the platform to receive our diplomas we closed the doors of high school and stepped into a new and challenging world.

The Chili Supper results are discussed by the Senior class officers, Dale Hershberger, President; Miss Wyse, Sponsor; Larion Swartzendruber, Vice President; Renee Detwiler, Secretary; Mr. Alderfer, Sponsor; June Swartzendruber, Treasurer.

Much of a student's education may be said to come from his life with fellow students in the rooms or lounges of the residence halls. One Goshen graduate has said, "When I think of my education at Goshen, I think I got a lot of it in the dormitories. Goshen helped me to open up to persons; to really see what others were like. In a much deeper way than ever before I can form meaningful relationships with persons because of the interaction I had at Goshen."

Goshen College plans to build two new residence by 1967—one for men and one for women—to accommodate the increasing numbers of students who will come to Goshen for Christian higher education.

In gratitude we as a 1966 Reverie staff wish to remember those who have helped to construct the different phases and characteristics of the Reverie.

American Yearbook Company, Hannibal, Missouri for publishing our yearbook.

Hilda's Studio, Williamsburg, Iowa for professional photography.

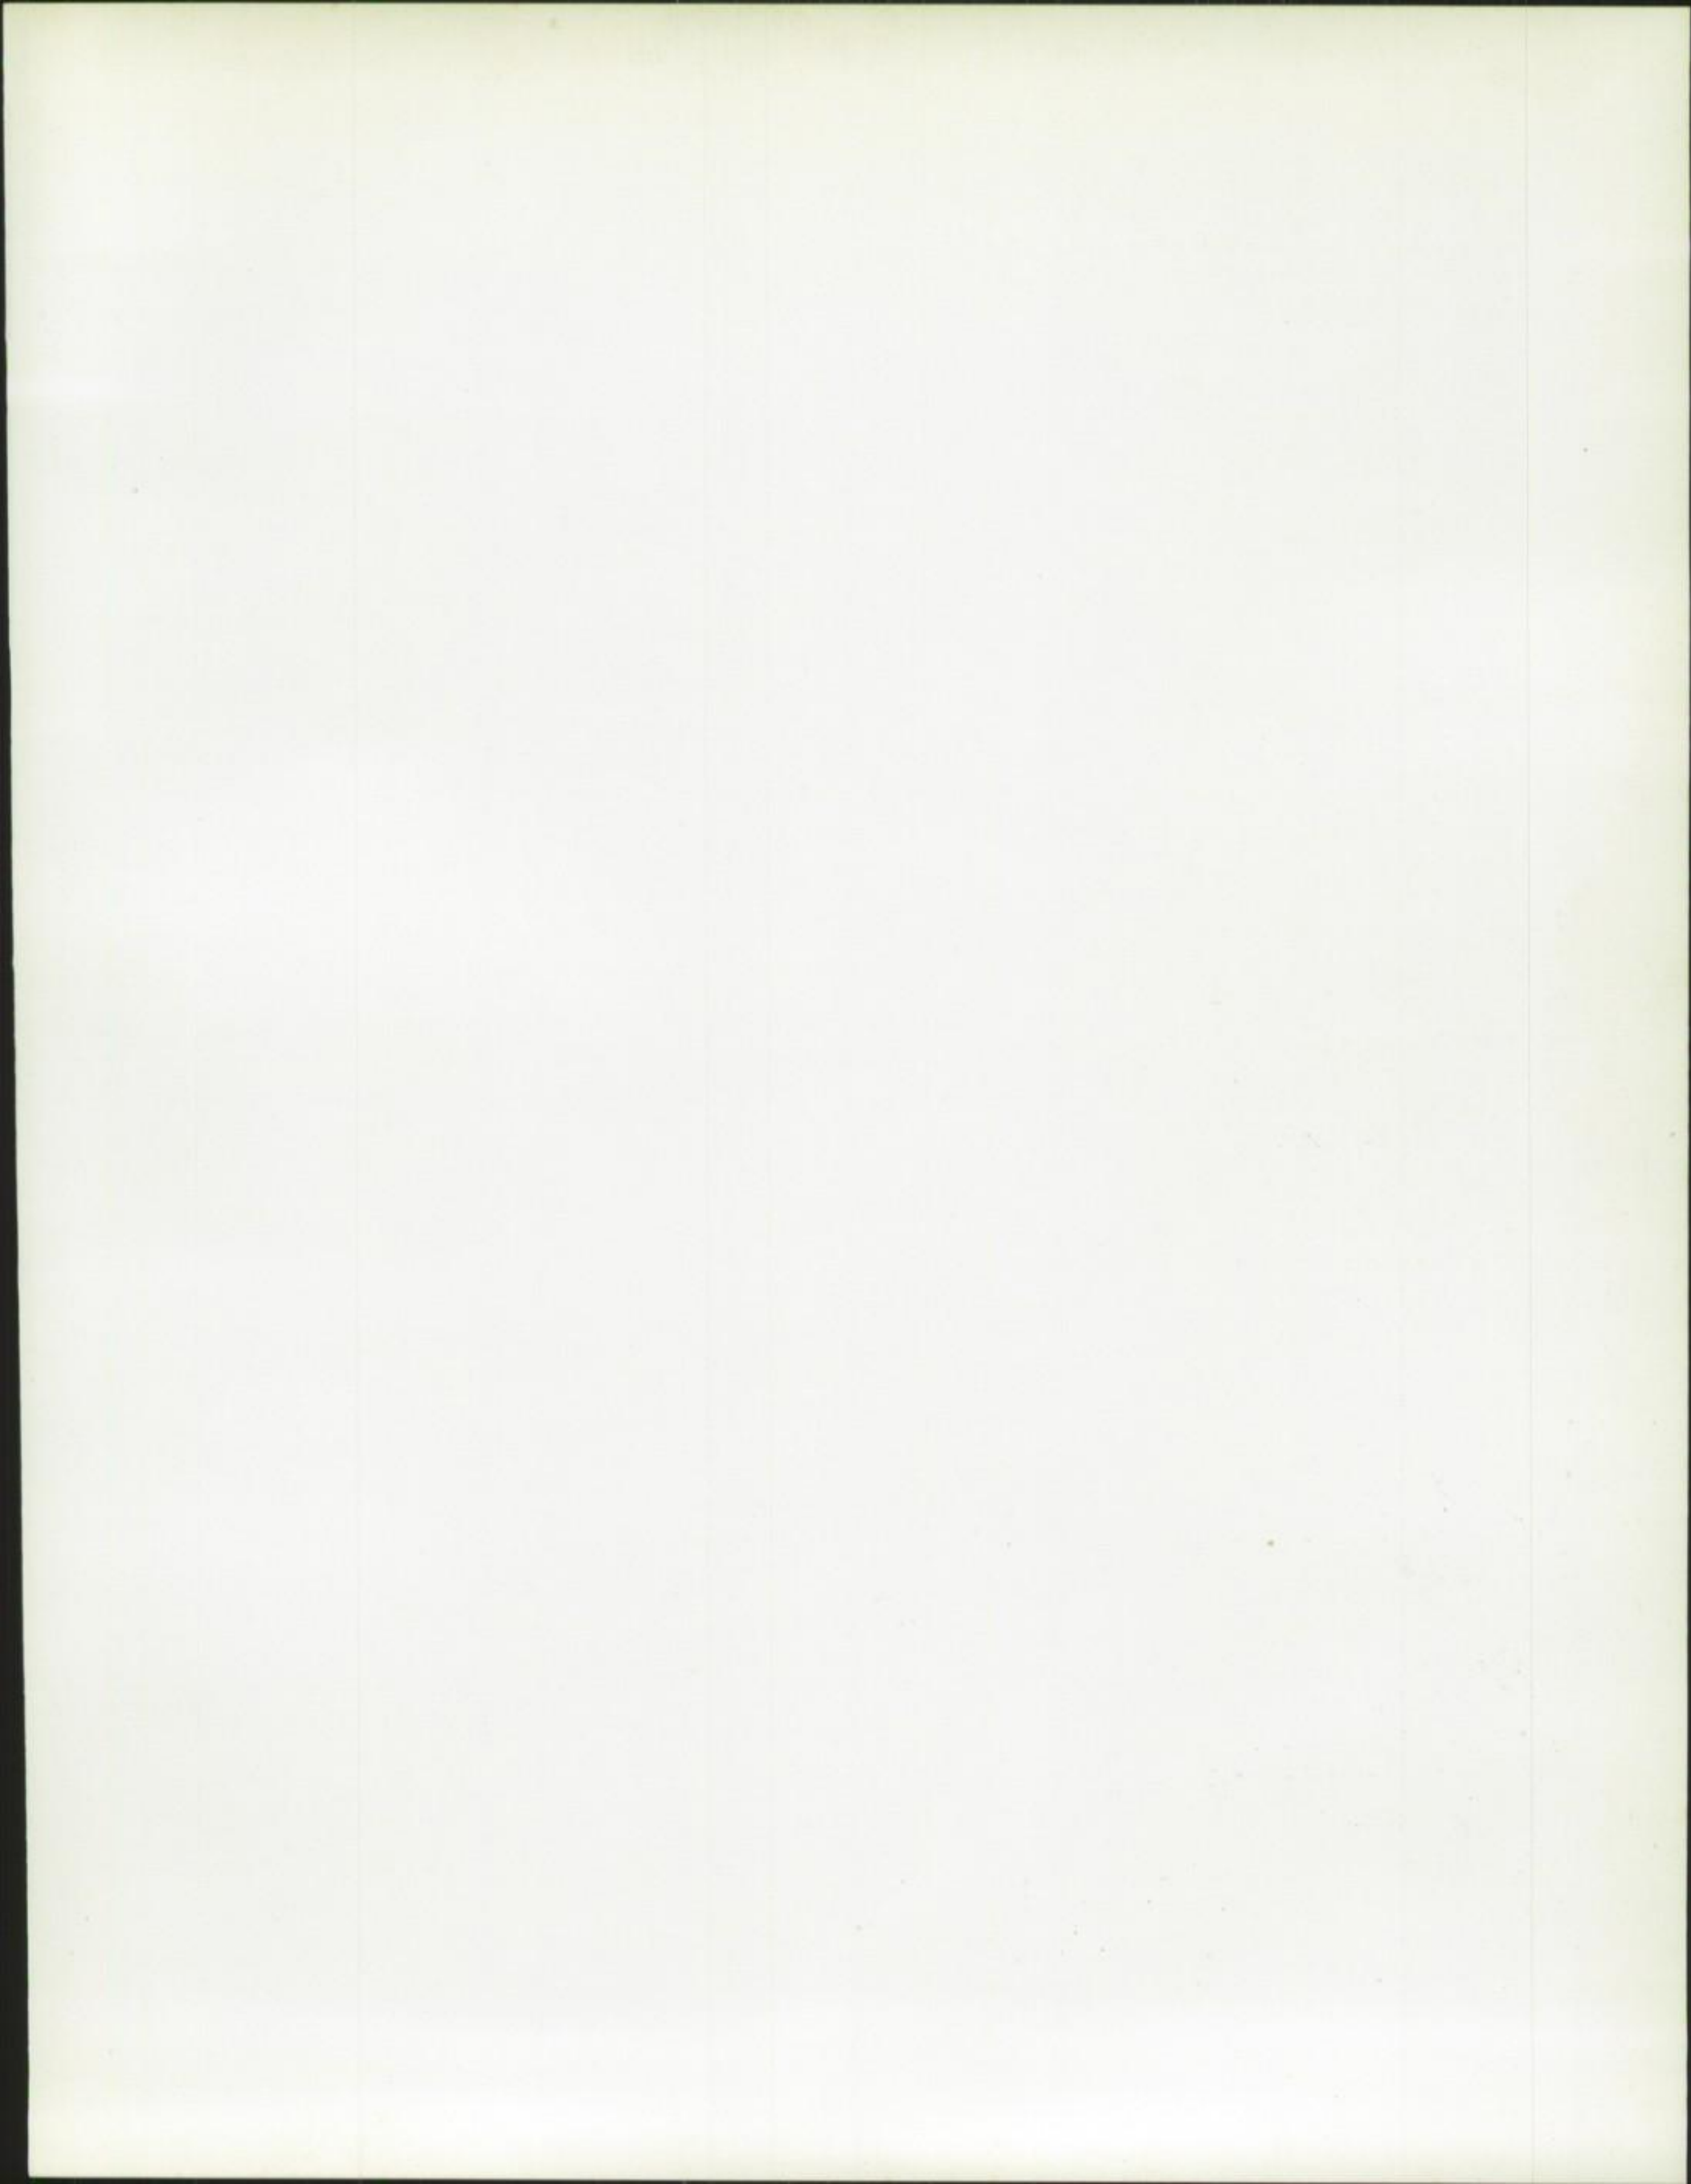

Patrons and advertisers, for advertisements.

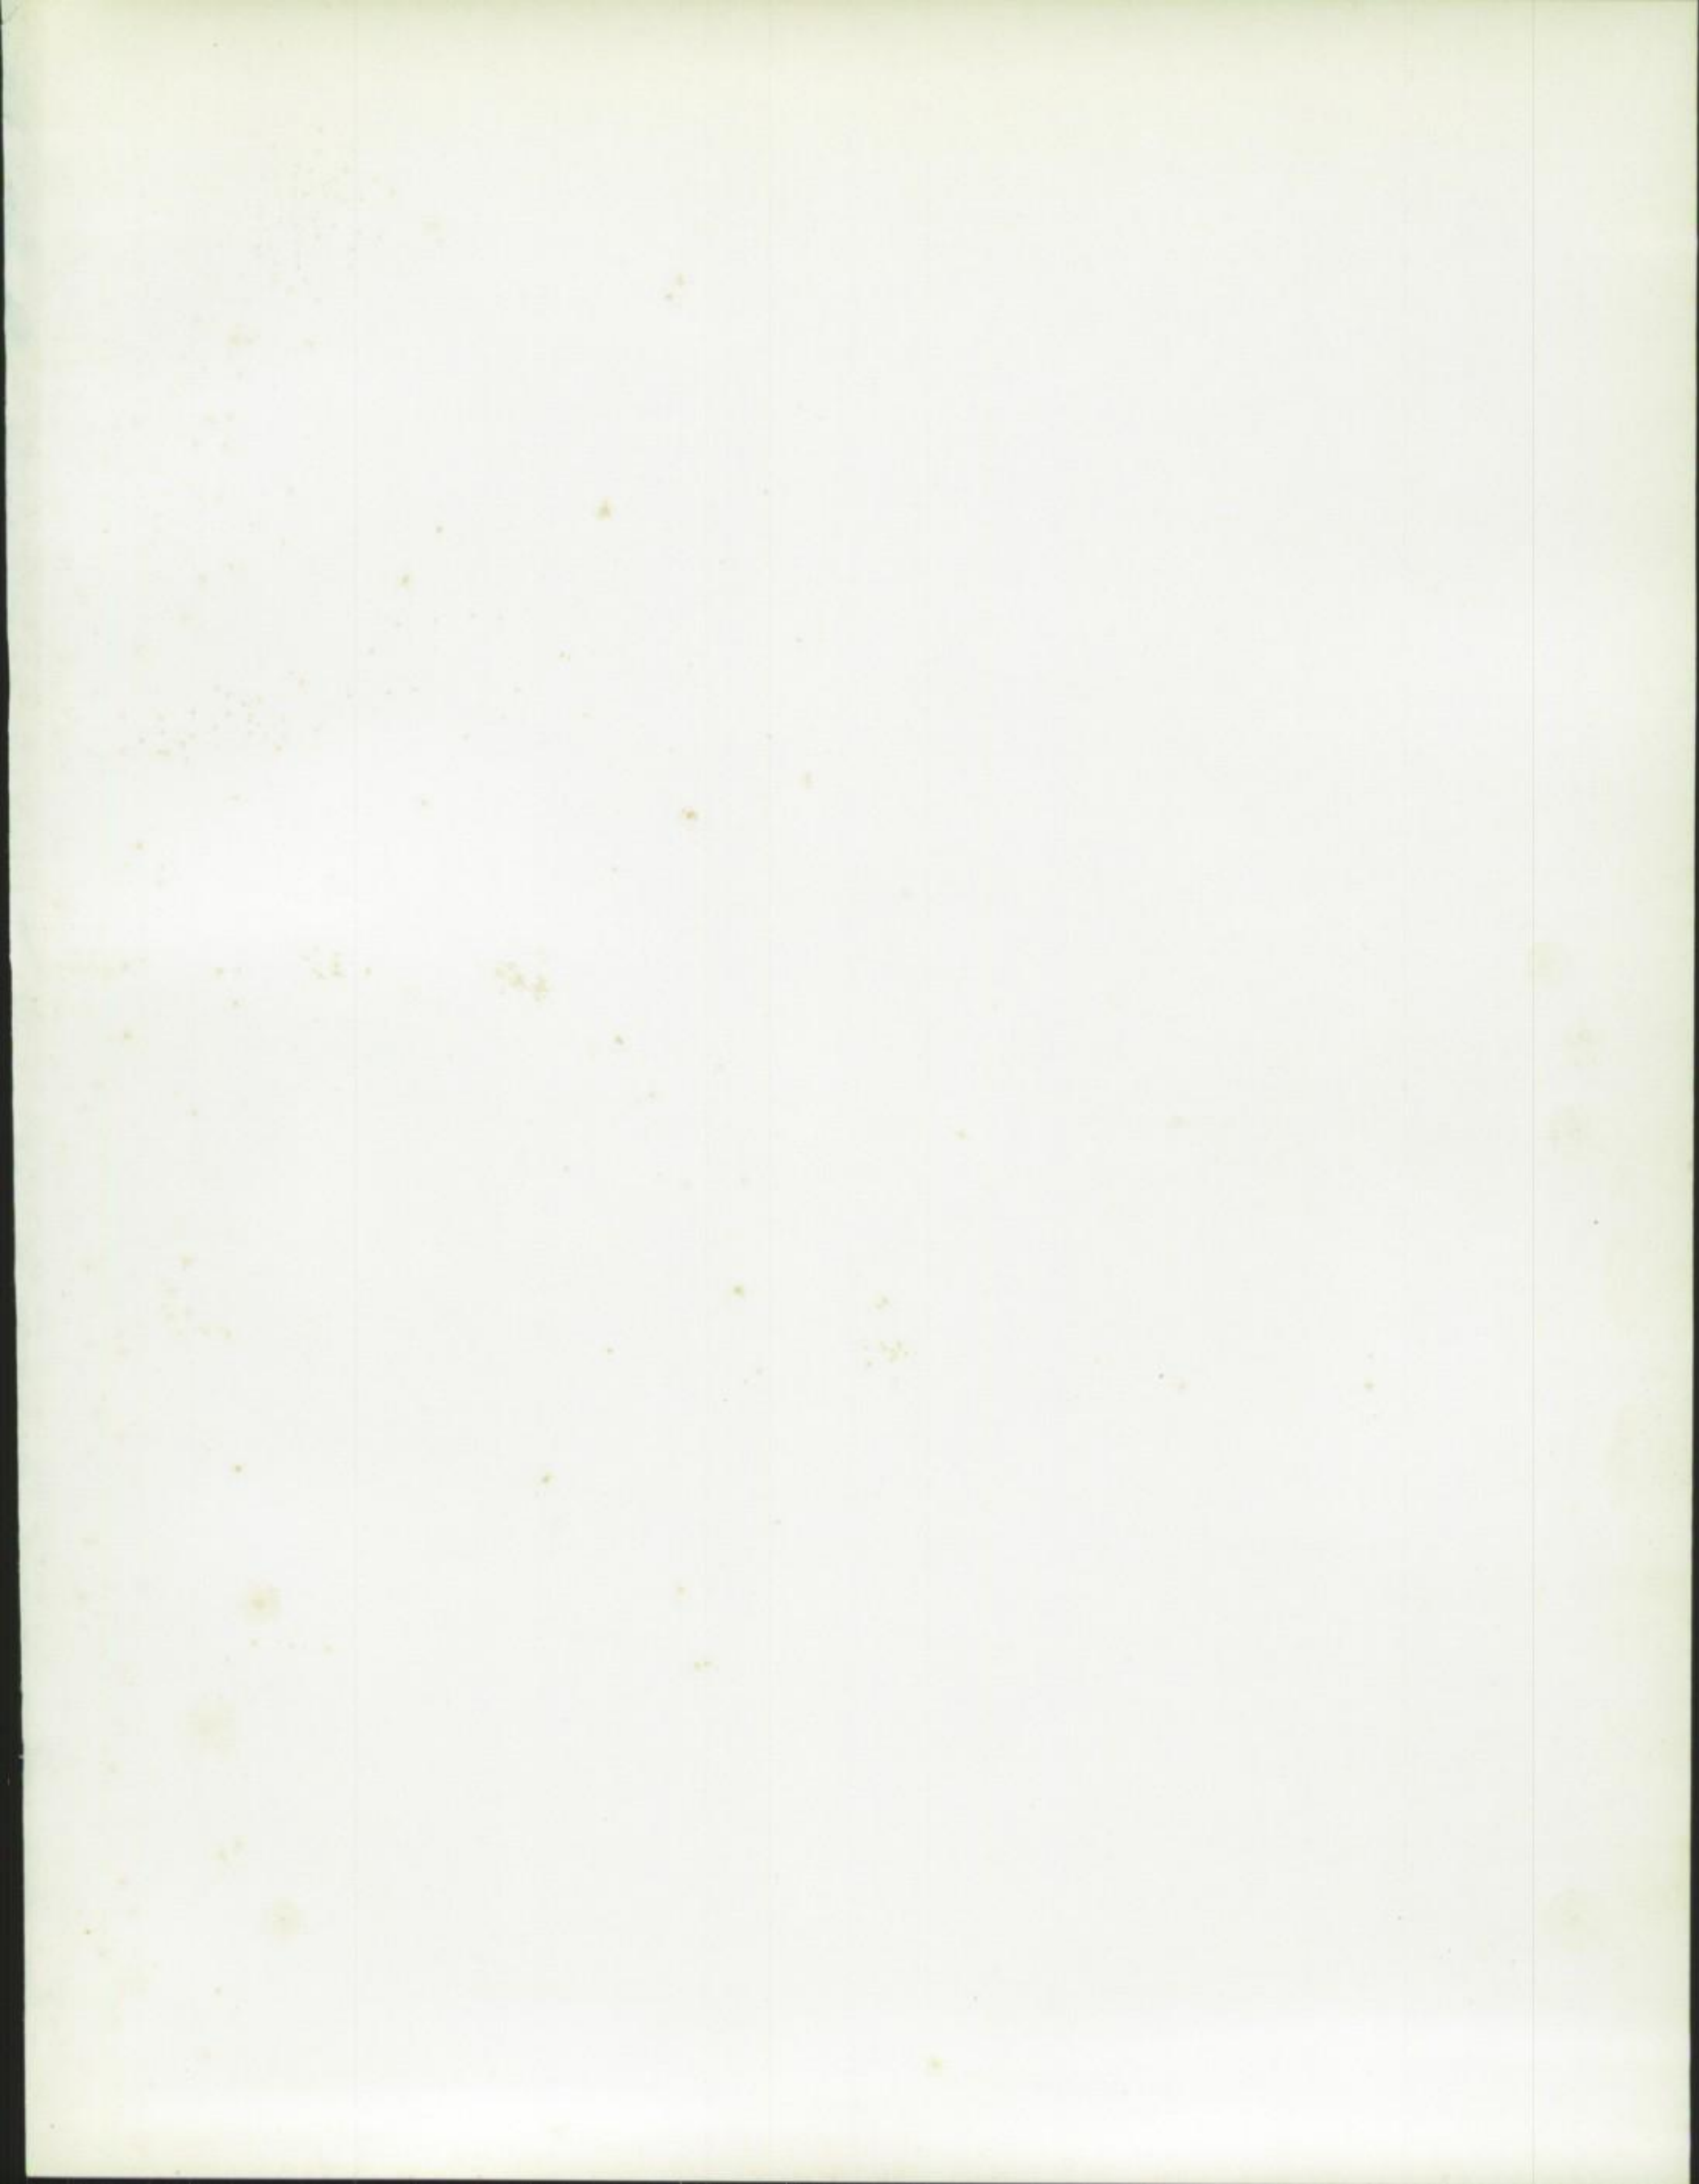

Senior ad salesmen and all students for ambitiously selling ads and Reveries.

Miss Wyse, for patience and constructive criticism as sponsor.

Lavonne Graber, for designing the cover and division pages.

Happiness—thoughtfulness—sadness—this and more has been we, the people of this year and will continue to be the people in future years. We, the people, who, through encountering others with differing personalities, will continue to grow toward mental and spiritual maturity.
